

Jerry enters his cozy mouse hole, climbs into his bed, and falls asleep. Meanwhile, Tom curiously approaches a small blue bell above Jerry's mouse hole and happily rings it, causing Jerry to angrily emerge holding a golden horn. Jerry blows the horn loudly, startling Tom into a panicked leap, resulting in a landing and Tom hastily covering his ears.

Jerry, satisfied with his success, returns to bed, settling beneath his vellow blanket as he drifts back to sleep.

Tom is happily eating an apple pie at the kitchen table. Jerry looks longingly wishing he had some. Jerry goes outside the front door of the house and rings the doorbell. While Tom comes to open the door, Jerry runs around the back to the kitchen. Jerry steals Tom's apple pie. Jerry runs to his mouse hole carrying the pie, while Tom is chasing him.

Just as Tom is about to catch Jerry, Jerry makes it through the mouse hole and Tom slams into the wall.